LOUIS EBOLI
AR

On October 24, 1977, [redacted] advised SA [redacted] as follows: b6 b7C b7D

LOUIS EBOLI was the one behind the "hit" of CHUCK NICOLETTI. The reason EBOLI had this done was for revenge. EBOLI believed it was NICOLETTI that was behind the "hit" of EBOLI's father in New York around three to five years ago. The "hit" was actually made by [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

LOUIS EBOLI now owns The Stone Cottage around Route 83 and North Avenue, and this location is being frequented by may people connected with Organized Crime. Among those observed at this location by this source is HARRY ALEMAN, who was there on a Friday night around October 3, 1977. ALEMAN did not arrive until approximately midnight.

CAUTION: DO NOT DISSEMINATE OUTSIDE THE BUREAU. WHEN USED FOR "LEAD INFORMATION" IN INTERVIEWS, EVERY EFFORT SHOULD BE MADE TO INSURE SOURCE'S IDENTITY WILL NOT BE COMPROMISED.

Louis Eboli stalls bettors, but gets syndicate shield

By Art Petacque

A convoy of crime syndicate bodyguards has been assigned to protect Louis Eboli, 37, a Melrose Park bookmaker who has alienated some of his clients by failing to pay off winning bets.

Eboli, of 241 Silver Lane, Melrose Park, has been afforded the special consideration because his father is Thomas Eboli, 59, also known as Tommy Ryan, of New York.

Ryan, or the elder Eboli, is considered by U.S. Justice Department officials as the heir to the title of Mafia Boss of Bosses, a position formerly held by the late Vito Genovese, who died in prison on St. Valentine's Day, 1969.

Young Eboli has been in the Chicago area for the past 10 years on what can be described as the crime syndicate's junior executive training program.

While here, Eboli has acquired — besides the recent animosity of some of his betting clients — the nickname of Louie the Mooch, because of his predilection for living off the reputation of his powerful father.

Louie has worked closely with his uncle, Sam Ariola, a juice loan collector and gambling boss of considerable stature in the western suburbs.

Louie's most recent difficulties began during the past fall and winter when he ran a football betting operation and began welshing on bets. He stalled some bettors, including other bookmakers with tough-guy reputations, right on past the Super Bowl.

Because of Tommy Ryan's warm relationship with the Chicago office of the mob, it was thought best to provide his son with a task force of Mafia musclemen to increase the odds that he would not meet with injury or something worse from his clients.

This information has come to the attention of Harvey Johnson Jr., operating director of the Chicago Crime Commission, and federal investigators. FBI agents uncovered the Eboli father-son relationship during an investigation of Melrose Park crime figures.

The attention to young Eboli's safety should please Ryan, who occasionally comes to Chicago to visit his son. The last time Ryan was here, in July, 1970, he was hospitalized briefly in Loretto Hospital for his recurrent heart trouble.

Until his recent troubles, young Eboli and his uncle had avoided publicity since 1962 when they were tried and acquitted for beating two men.

The men admitted fixing one of Ariola's pinball machines so it would pay them $72 and accused Eboli and Ariola of showing their displeasure by hitting them repeatedly with baseball bats.

A jury deliberated 90 minutes before finding Eboli and Ariola not guilty.

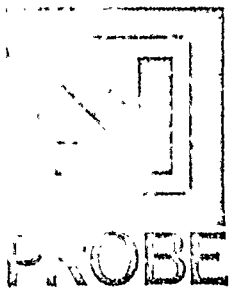
District 89 under investigation

Siff suburb school, mob ties

BY GARY CUMMINGS

COMPANIES RUN by associates and in-laws of crime syndicate chieftain Anthony Accardo are doing considerable business with west suburban school District 89, a CHICAGO TODAY-Better Government Association investigation has found.

The district, with "conditional recognition" from the county superintendent of schools, is dealing extensively with hoodlum-connected Mayo Plumbing Co., and Tri Bee Supply Co., Inc., in purchases for which there is no competitive bidding.



CHICAGO TODAY revealed in yesterday's editions the existence of voting irregularities in last spring's school board election. The district includes 11 elementary schools in Melrose Park, Maywood and Broadview.

Mayo Plumbing, 1027 N. 25th Av., Melrose Park, is listed by the Chicago Crime Commission as having hoodlum connections. It was founded by Nicky Palermo, a mob figure whose son, Michael, is married to Accardo's daughter, Linda Lee.

PALERMO WAS convicted in a Northlake extortion plot in 1969. Two years earlier, he put Mayo Plumbing into the name of James Langone, his son-in-law, according to the crime commission.

B. G. A. Investigator Roland Restle found that last year Mayo did more than $3,000 business with District 89. District Supt. H. T. Peterson said he did not believe there were any bids on the jobs, all of which were under $1,500, the minimum for which competitive bidding is required.

Mayo's secretary is Mrs. Jean Buonomo, who was arrested with Palermo in 1954 when $150,000 worth of stolen art objects were found in his plumbing office.

Mrs. Buonomo also serves as secretary of Ampo Electric Co., Inc., 1916 Division St., Melrose Park. That firm did more than $8,000 business with the school district in fiscal 1969.

THE SCHOOL district also is doing considerable business with the Tri Bee firm, at 908-918 W. Lake St., Melrose Park.

Tri Bee's president is Thomas Eboli, listed in secret investigative files as the son of Thomas Eboli, alias Tommy Ryan, who has recently been in charge of New York City's huge Genovese hoodlum empire.

Secretary and treasurer of Tri Bee, a wholesale bar and restaurant supply business, is Joseph Bronge, the college roommate of Accardo's son, Anthony Jr. Bronge and his late father operated west Town Distributors until the father was murdered in front of his office.

In the last fiscal year, Tri Bee sold more than $6,000 worth of supplies to District [illegible] according to school records. Peterson said there were no competitive bids. One [illegible] was for $4,099.76 for custodial supplies. Peterson said there was no bid even [illegible] amount of the order was for $2,500 above the amount which demands competitive bidding.

TRI BEE MORE than doubled its business with the school district after its warehouse manager, Daniel Cogliandro, became superintendent of school buildings and grounds at more than $16,000 a year.

The appointment of Cogliandro [illegible] district board came over strong objections of a former school superintendent and led in part to the district's "conditional recognition" by the county schools office.

The county superintendent's office also cited as reasons for the conditional status the resignation of two district superintendents in a year's time and a junket to Arizona by board members who did not account for their spending.

The county is to investigate the district this month to determine whether to lift the conditional status or take further action.

CHICAGO TODAY revealed yesterday that the B. G. A. has found "ghost" voters and a possible dead voter in last spring's election of the current board.

The "ghosts" were discovered in the home precinct of Proviso Township Democratic Committeeman Ralph [Babe] Serpico.

Serpico, who handles objections for the county assessor's office, has traveled to Puerto Rico with Accardo and other gangsters and Melrose Park officials, has been photographed with syndicate figure Anthony II. Spilotro and has admitted he is a family friend of Joseph [Doves] Aiuppa, Cicero crime boss.

Serpico has denied any association with hoodlums.

An attempt was made to repair this building, but several nights ago, someone set fire to this damaged structure, resulting in more problems for the owner.

The informant stated about two months ago a "Mr. G." Hamburger Restaurant, also a chain outfit, tried to build a structure on North Avenue east of Mannheim Road near Melrose Park, Illinois. This building had a similar fate - apparently the "hoods" didn't receive their payoff on either place, and the resulting explosion and fire occurred.

SUBJECT: LOUIS EBOLI

The attached Federal Income Tax data was made available on the date indicated by Assistant United States Attorney [redacted], Special Prosecutions Unit, Chicago. The tax returns from which the data was obtained are in a group of approximately 200 returns requested by the Task Force located in the United States Attorney's Office, Chicago. The returns were obtained by the Task Force from a list of names of hoodlum subjects obtained from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the Task Force. 1967 returns are the latest available at this time.

The ostensible purpose of the review was to determine which subjects are claiming home mortgage-interest expense deductions.

The review was made as part of a project to determine which hoodlums have obtained loans from Federal Savings and Loan Associations. Title 18, United States Code, Section 1014 covers Federal Savings and Loan Associations and prohibits making of false statements to such institutions for the purpose of influencing any action. Penalty is $5,000 fine or two years or both.

Since the purpose of the review was to merely identify subject's with home mortgages and if possible the S&L holding the mortgage, and the fact the IRS regulations prohibit disclosure of tax information,

THE ATTACHED DATA MUST NOT BE INCLUDED IN DETAILS OF ANY REPORTS SUBMITTED TO THE USA AND SHOULD ONLY BE SET FORTH UNDER ADMINISTRATIVE DATA.

Reputed Mafia boss stricken; listed as 'fair'

TEANECK, N.J. (AP) —Reputed Mafia boss Thomas Eboli was reported in fair condition Saturday in Holy Name Hospital here suffering from what hospital authorities said was apparently a heart attack.

The hospital's night supervisor said that Eboli, 58, of Fort Lee, had been admitted to the hospital Thursday night.

Eboli had appeared under subpena in Trenton earlier in the week before the State Investigation Commission, which is conducting an inquiry into organized crime.

He has been named at various times as an underboss in the New York Mafia family of Joseph Bonanno and as the acting head of the Vito Genovese family. Genovese died this summer in a federal prison.

Eboli is alleged by law enforcement officials to be a power on the docks of New York Harbor.

How the Syndicate Runs Pinball Racket

By PHILIP CAPUTO

The removal of pinball machines from Lyons should mean a loosening of the crime syndicate grip on the village, an investigator said Wednesday.

"Pinball machines are always a definite sign that the crime syndicate has strong influence, if not domination, of a community," the investigator said. "This is so because pinball machines are a source of high income for the outfit. Pinball machines are big money.

Lyons police conducted an inspection Wednesday morning to determine if bar and restaurant owners had complied with the 9:30 a.m. deadline for removal of pinball machines set by Village President William G. Smith after the disclosure of their presence by The Trib.

The police, accompanied by a Trib reporter and photographer, found the machines had been removed in all Lyons taverns and restaurants, including the Blue Lantern bar, Ogden avenue and Powell street, the 47th Street Bar and Grill, 47th street and Lawndale avenue, and Jeanne's bar, 7320 W. 39th.

There is a question as to which of two hoodlum firms distributed the machines found in Lyons. State and federal law enforcement agencies say there are two distributorships that have monopolized the pinball machine racket in the western suburbs.

The firms are the M & N Novelty co., 1931 N. 78th, Elmwood Park, and the Cicero Amusement Devices co., 4807 W. 23d, Cicero.

M & N Novelty is owned by Nicholas Visco, a former associate of Chicago Cosa Nostra boss Sam Giancana. Cicero Amusement Devices is owned by Anthony Battaglia, brother of Sam Battaglia. Anthony came under scrutiny by the FBI when he was seen at a Melrose Park night club, Strangers in the Night, with Joseph Amabile, who was sentenced to 15 years in prison with Sam Battaglia on extortion charges.

The investigator who spoke to The Trib Wednesday said one of the two firms probably distributed the machines found in Lyons bars.

Both the M & N Novelty co. and Cicero Amusement Devices co. have the same simple method of distributing machines.

A member of the company tells a tavern owner that a machine will be installed in his establishment. The owner is required to purchase the $250 federal stamp for the machine, for which he is reimbursed at a $25-a-week rate by the syndicate.

The company representative tells the tavern owner that he (the owner) will be repaid for all winnings made by customers on the machines, and that the remaining profit is to be split 50-50 with the distributor. The 50-50 split applies only to smaller machines. The mob takes the lion's share of profits. Collection dates and times are arranged and the owner is given a phone number to call should something go wrong with the machine.

Since all machines have a game-counting device, it is almost impossible for the proprietor to cheat, and those unwise enough to do so are usually disciplined in traditional syndicate style — with a beating. The same treatment is given to proprietors who refuse to allow a pinball machine to be installed.

Reportedly, Visco assumed control of M & N Novelty after his boss, Giancana, left the country. Visco had been a partner of Giancana in a Norwood restaurant and gambling center called the "Mist."

Visco's partners in M & N are Michael Sabbatino, whose home address is also the address of the company, and Louis Eboli, whose brother, Thomas, became acting head of the powerful New York Cosa Nostra "family" of Vito Genovese after Genovese's death in prison last year.

The immediate supervisors of the three — in the syndicate chain of command — are Guido De Chiaro and Sam Ariola, both well-known syndicate figures in the western suburbs.

M & N virtually monopolizes all pinball machines in Melrose Park, Stone Park, Northlake, and Franklin Park, and has interests in other western suburbs.

Investigators report the most profitable pinball machine operation for M & N is in Melrose Park, which contains at least 20 machines averaging a weekly take for the syndicate of $600 per machine.

The biggest Melrose Park profits are reaped from nine machines installed in the Harlo grill, 2400 W. North; the Hasty grill, 1801 W. North; and Don and Paul's grill, 25th avenue and Lake street.

As recently as last year, the machines in the Harlo and Hasty grills, both owned by Russell Cross, were netting $5,500 per week for M & N.

Wednesday, a Trib reporter played the multiple-odds machines in both restaurants and observed a lively traffic of customers pumping dimes into the devices. The busiest machines were those in the back room of the Harlo grill.

Any time a customer wins, Cross or a cook pays him off and signs a chit that is placed in the cash register. Then, at 11 a.m. on Wednesday and Friday mornings, Visco or another collector counts the profits at Rocky's drive-in, 2204 W. North, and splits the take with Cross.

After reporting the profits to De Chiaro and Ariola, the M & N collector retains a percentage for the company.

De Chiaro and Ariola then funnel a percentage of the net to Paul Ricca, who, along with Anthony Accardo shares chairmanship of the Chicago council, controling body of the crime syndicate in this area.

The phone number proprietors are to call in case something goes wrong with an M & N machine is FI 3-0200, according to law enforcement agents. The proprietor is instructed to ask for "agent one," the repairman who is known only as "Skins." In this way, the proprietor is kept in the dark as to the name of the firm that installed his machine.

The organization of the Cicero Amusement Devices co. is neither as sophisticated nor as profitable.

The company owns all pinball machines in Cicero and is probably the firm that owns most of the machines in the southwest suburban area.

Anthony Battaglia's partner in Cicero Amusement is Samuel C. Wolande, 4934 Randolph, Hillside. Wolande does all the collecting, altho he does not maintain as rigid a schedule as Visco's firm.

According to federal and state law enforcement officials, anyone who wishes to obtain a liquor license in Cicero is told by the town's deputy liquor commissioner that he must also agree to have one of Battaglia's machines installed.

"He isn't given any choice," an investigator told The Trib. "He doesn't get a liquor license if he doesn't agree to have a pinball machine installed. It's a package deal."

The split on the profits is arranged the same as M & N's — 50-50 on small machines, with a higher percentage to the mob on big machines. The machines, however, average a weekly gross profit of $250, compared to the $600 in Melrose Park. Nonetheless, one tavern owner told police his split on the profits of one pinball machine "paid my rent every month."

The telephone number given by the Cicero Amusement Device co. checks out to the Cypress inn, 2015 S. Cicero. The number is 656-6426. The Cypress is owned by Steve Lambesis, a close associate of Battaglia's.

Profits from the Cicero company are funneled to Cicero vice boss Joseph Aiuppa and loan shark racketeer Fiore Buccieri thru Joseph Corngold, a gambling partner of Aiuppa.

The pinball machines at the 47th Street Bar and Grill, Jeanne's bar, the Blue Lantern bar, the Harlo Grill, Hasty Grill, and Don and Paul's Grill are not registered with the Cook county clerk. State law requires the owner of a pinball machine to register his federal gaming stamp with the county clerk's office.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date 9/14/68

On September 13, 1968, [redacted] was interviewed at his residence in [redacted] Illinois, concerning his knowledge of juice loans. [redacted] furnished the following information which involves PASQUALE "Buck" CLEMENTI, [redacted] CHARLES NICOLETTI and LOUIS EBOLI:

He is not absolutely certain but believes it was during [redacted] that he obtained his first juice loan. An accumulation of gambling debts prior to this date placed him in a financial situation which required an immediate loan. He contacted "Bucky" CLEMENTI who told him that interest would be ten dollars per week for every hundred dollars borrowed. This interest was to be paid each week without fail. There was, however, no time limit on repayment of the principle. [redacted] arranged to borrow [redacted] dollars from CLEMENTI at the above rate of interest. CLEMENTI personally gave [redacted] the [redacted] in cash while both were at what was then called [redacted] but what is now called the [redacted] located at [redacted] At the time [redacted] borrowed the money [redacted] was owned by [redacted] who owes the "outfit" a great deal of money and who is destined to wind up in a trunk. He believes [redacted] to be a juice victim.

For three weeks he paid interest at the rate of thirty dollars per week and between the third and fourth weeks he paid the principle. The interest and principle were paid to [redacted]

A few weeks later, around October, [redacted] went to see "Bucky" CLEMENTI to arrange for another juice loan. He was told to go see [redacted] When contact was made he told [redacted] he needed [redacted] Three to four hours later [redacted] met him at [redacted] and gave him [redacted] one-hundred dollar bills. [redacted] understood the interest would be [redacted] dollars per week payable by the week. [redacted] made approximately [redacted] interest payments totaling [redacted] dollars but then fell behind. When he requested additional time to pay [redacted] reminded him that he knew what he was getting into when he made the loan. No threats of bodily harm were made by [redacted]

All of the above five payments made by [redacted] were made at the CLEMENTI residence, 1681 North 5th Avenue, Melrose Park, three times to [redacted] and two times to "Lucky" CLEMENTI. No receipt of any kind ever was given. b6 b7C b7D

The [redacted] juice loan of [redacted] dollars was made through [redacted] (LNU) from [redacted] a few blocks west of Harlem. He believes this loan was made around [redacted] but may have actually been the [redacted] juice loan he made. He is confused as to the amount as there was such a mixup when he got behind in his interest payments he lost track of the amount owed in interest and principle. In addition he was attempting to borrow money from other sources.

[redacted] worked at a tavern located on [redacted] This tavern was located just south of the [redacted] owned the tavern in the early 1960's. [redacted] was present when [redacted] brought the money for the loan to this tavern and saw [redacted] give it to [redacted] at the time was operating the tavern in the [redacted] Illinois. He made [redacted] interest payments on this loan at the [redacted] to [redacted]

For juice loan number [redacted] went to [redacted] He needed the money to pay off the balance of the principle still owed [redacted] and to pay back interest due on the loan from [redacted] To obtain this [redacted] dollar loan he went to what was then a [redacted] but which is now a [redacted] in the [redacted] personally gave him the money. [redacted] can not recall the date but does recall that he obtained the money shortly before his [redacted] loan which was made in [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

He made loan number [redacted] (formerly [redacted]) located on [redacted] He went to [redacted] for the money. [redacted] said he would send him to someone whereupon [redacted] made a telephone call. After completing the call, [redacted] told [redacted] to go to a lounge, name not recalled, located on [redacted] one block west of [redacted] and ask for "Chucky". This lounge had [redacted] "CHUCKY" turned out to be CHARLES

NICOLETTI who [redacted] recognized immediately. NICOLETTI inquired as to the name of the person who sent him and then asked how much he needed. [redacted] requested [redacted] dollars. NICOLETTI took him to the rear of the lounge and handed him [redacted] one hundred dollar bills. [redacted] made two [redacted]-dollar payments to NICOLETTI after first contacting him by telephone to find out where to meet him. [redacted] can not recall NICOLETTI's number but does recall a woman always answered and then called NICOLETTI to the phone. When he called to tell NICOLETTI he would be late making the [redacted] interest payment, NICOLETTI said he should not get in this bad habit as he, NICOLETTI, did not like it. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] could not make the [redacted] interest payment so he called [redacted] for help. [redacted] went to [redacted] house to have a talk with him. [redacted] could not believe that [redacted] was on juice to NICOLETTI, but had no solution to his problem. NICOLETTI started calling [redacted] at home with these calls increasing in number as the amount owed in interest grew larger. NICOLETTI's calls increased to the point where they were coming at all hours of the day and night. On one occasion NICOLETTI told [redacted] that if he did not pay he would put him in a trunk. On another occasion NICOLETTI [redacted] to come up with the money or "I am coming out to get you. If you don't come up with the money I will come and kill you right on the front steps." Following this call [redacted] became so frightened he loaded his shotgun and sat in his darkened kitchen waiting for his executioner to arrive. In the meantime his mother, [redacted] came home from work and found him in the kitchen. Until this time she had no knowledge of what had been taking place so he told her the whole story. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] does not recall the exact amounts paid out on all occasions in juice loan interest payments plus the principle but is certain the total amount was more than [redacted] He knows this to be correct as his mother borrowed [redacted] dollars from a bank in [redacted] on one occasion and borrowed [redacted] dollars more from an unknown source on another occasion. All of this money was used to pay off completely the amount [redacted] was told he owed in interest and principle. The entire amount was owed to [redacted] being owed to CHARLES NICOLETTI.

The final [redacted] dollars was paid to three individuals in the [redacted] kitchen in the presence of [redacted] b6 b7C b7D [redacted] It was the idea of the [redacted] to have the juice loan collectors come to the [redacted] home to collect and not their idea. He can not recall the breakdown of the [redacted] dollars which was paid out previously as a result of juice loans. [redacted] believes it was in the fall of 1966 that the [redacted] was paid out to the following three individuals:

LOUIS EBOLI, [redacted] EBOLI came to the house [redacted] arrived in a Cadillac about one-half hour after EBOLI.

[redacted] (LNU), associate of [redacted] Arrived in an old model Chevrolet about dark one-half hour after [redacted]

[redacted] told [redacted] that all of the money he, [redacted] borrowed from different individuals came from the same source as one man controls all of the juice loans. [redacted] did not divulge the name of this individual.

[redacted] is willing to testify in court concerning his juice loans providing there are other juice loan victims who are also willing to testify.
